Cincinnati Hydropathic Or Water Cure Establishment. Water Cure Established

The above Institution is now open for the reception of patients. It is located about five miles from the city, on the Carthage pike, and but a few rods from the Hamilton, Cincinnati and Dayton Raliroad, in the rear and at the same distance from the Miami Canal, in the front, rendering it easy of access to those desirous of enjoying the benefits of the Institution.

To the lover of nature, few parts of the country can furticle a more nleasing variety of scenery than spreads itself benefits of the Institution.

To the lover of nature, few parts of the country can furnish a more pleasing variety of scenery than spreads itself before the traveller all the way from Cincinuati to the Cure. There nature and art combine, rendering the view beautiful beyond description.

The new, large, and beautiful Edifice displays the taste of the artist at a glance. The neatness and elegance of the interior, combined with the numerous attractions which present themselves to the invalid, cannot fail to render this Establishment a desirable one. The Halls are extensive, the Rooms spacious and inviting, where the invalid can range at pleasure, free from atmospheric influences, in inclement weather. The Beal Rooms are ample and commodious, being convenient for the application of water, in every form. In connection with the Institution there is a Gymnasium Hall, seventy-five Feet long, where patients will have an opportunity of restoring their muscular strength by healthfu; exercise. The Springs which furnish the water for this establishment, are clear, pure, soff and abundant; flowing from a gravelly bed, they send one than the patient of the country and neighborhood are remyrkable of healthfulness, purity of area of the patient of the country and neighborhood are cenarkable of healthfulness, purity of area of the patients of the patient air, and variety of scenery. All things combined, we cannot think of a more desirable place, for those seeking health, than this Institution.

Dr. Prase, having had much experience in the treatment of disease for many years, begs leave to inform the public that no pains will be spared for the trestoration to licality those committed to his care. Mrs. Prase, who has, for several years, devoted her, attention to the treatment of the seeking that the pains will be spared for the female department. Prolaysus Uterl, with its train of allments, that bane of female beauty, health and happiness, which is prostrating the energies, and destroying the usefulness of a large portion of the fair sex, will be treated in this Institution, successfully, independent of pessaries or supporters of any kind. To this subject we would invite the attention of indies, as in all cases we shall expect to perform a perfect cure.

Persons visiting the Cure by the way of the Gincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, will stop at the Carthage station. Patients are requested to bring two comfortables, two blankets, two coarse sheets, six towels, and a quantity of old linen, suitable for bandages.

TERMS.—The terms for Board, Medical Services, and all ordinary attendance, will be ten dollars per week, payable weekly. Extra attendance will subject he patient to an extra charge. Some deduction will be made to those who find it necessary to spend a length of time in the Institution.

From three to five dollars will be charged for the first exaministion.

BY PINDLEY JOHNSTON, T

"Tis sad to think of the cold, cold tomb, All shrouded in darkness and mantled in gloom; All shrouded in darkness and mantled in gloom; Where the low creeping worm, and the reptile dwell, In the lonely depths of their earth-bound cell; Where ne glad voices strike on the car In tones of rejoicing exquisite and clear; Whete the cold, slimy snake, in that land of despair, Revels in giory and triumpn there.

A RICH ADVENTURE.

'I never attended but one temperance lecture,'

'I never attended but one temperance lecture,' said our friend B. with a peculiar smile, 'and don't think I shall ever attend another.'

'You probably found it dry.'

'Well, yes—but that isn't it. The lecture was well enough, but I got into such an awful scrape after it was over, that I never think of temperance meetings without a shudder. Pil tell you about it. It was in Jesey City, where I was something of a stranger, and the night was one of the worst of the season. Boreas! how it blew! It was enough to take your breath away. Well sir, the lecture was over, and making out with the crowd, I lingered in the door-way, contemplating the awful seene, when somebody took my arm.'

'Where have you been?' asked the sweetest voice in the world, 'I have been looking for you everwwhere.'

Very much surprised, I turned my head and saw—but I can't describe her. It makes me mad to but I can't describe her. It makes me mad to think how prodigiously pretty she was. With her left hand she leaned on my arm; she was arranging her veil with her right, and did not appear to 'You have been looking for me?' I faltered.

'Come, let us be going,' was her reply, pressing A thrill went to my heart. What to make of est, the noise of which prevented any conversa-ion. At length she said, with a scream:
'Put your arm around me, 1 shall blow away.'

I need not describe to you my sensations, as I pressed her to my side, and hurried on. It was very dark; nobody saw us; and allowing her to guide my steps, I followed her through two or hree streets, until she stopped before an elegant

'Oh, I have one.' As she opened the door, I stood waiting to bid her good night, or to have an explanation, turning quickly, she said:

'How queer you act to night, aint you coming A warm house and a pretty woman, were certainly objects of some consideration, and it was dreany to face the storm without seeing her more... So in I went, and followed her into a dark room, as she went, and notweet her the said, flock the door, John.

Now as if I had been the only John in the world, I thought she knew me. I locked the door and wondered what would come next. A suspicion of some horrid trick flashed on my mind, for

I had heard of men being entrapped by pretty wo-men, and was on the point of leaving, as my lady struck a light, and I discovered that I was in the bed room with a pretty woman-I cannot tell my feelings. She stared at me an instant, turned pale and screamed:

'Who are you? How came you here? Goquick, leave this room—I thought you was MY HUSBAND!' and covering her face with her hands she sobbed she was to have me. I started but in my confusion opened a closet door; at that instant I heard a thumping at the front door, and then the lady screamed, for it was her husband. She opened the door and the jealous husband entered. He roared and stormed. His pretty wife remonstrated. Othello was jealous and revengeful—Desdemona

'He is here! I saw him go into the house with ou. I'll have his heart out.'
'Hear me and I'll explain!' As I listened for the explanation, he entered he closet and discovered me! I was in a bad 'Well B,' inquired, 'how did you get out of the scrape?'
Well, driven into a corner—my life in danger, nnucent and distressed.

well, driven into a corner—my file in unanger, and perceiving at a glance that Othello was not asstrong as myself, I threw him to the floor and held him till I had given a full explanation of the affair, made him hear reason, and tamed him to be quiet as a lamb. I then left rather uncereinonically and the second of the log of Desdemona ously, and have never seen Othello or Desdemona PRINTERS.

J. T. Buckingbam, in his 'Reminiscences,' in the course of publication in the Boston Courier, speaks of the importance of printers to authors, as follows:— 'Many who condescend to illuminate the dark world with the fire of their genius, through the columns of a newspaper, little think of the printer, who almost suffocated by the smoke of a lamp, up till midnight to correct their false grammar, bad orthography, and worse punctuation. I have seen the arguments of lawyers in high repute as scholars sent to the printer in their own hand writing, with many words, and especially techni-cal and foreign terms abbreviated, words misspell-ed, and few or no points.

I have seen the sermons of divines sent to the

I have seen the schools of capitals to designate the division of sentences—sermons which, if published with the imperfections of the manuscript, would disgrace the printer's devil if he were the author. Suppose they had been printed; the printer would have been treated with scorn and contempt, as an illiterate blockhead—as a fellow better fitted to be illiterate blockhead—as a fellow better fitted to be a wood sawyer than a professor of the art of printing. Nobody would have believed that such gross and palpable faults were owing to the ignorance and carelessness of the author. And nobody but and carelessness of the author. And hobody but the practical printer knows how many hours, the compositor and after him the proof reader, are compelled to spend in reducing to a readable con-dition, manuscripts that the author himself would be puzzled to spend.

Holding the Plow.

An Irishman, newly imported made application for work. On being asked if he could hold the plow, Paddy, said he could do that or any thing else. He was accordingly engaged, and his master went with him to the field to see him commence operations. It was soon found that the Hilbernian was tions. It was soon found that the Hibernian was new at the trade. "Do you tell me, sir, ti at you could hold the Woman's Rights .- The editor of the Springfield Woman's Rights.—The editor of the Springfield Post, speaking of the rights of the softer sex, says to the unmarried: "Discard fear, sport a bloomer, put the question to the astonished gentleman, and hefore he has time to recover himself, carry him to the priest and marry him, "will he, nil he." There is no law against forcibly marrying a man, it's all on the other side."
